Foreword

THE Nineteen Thirty-Six Nugget has been created to perpetuate the memories which are now so radiant within us. Our hopes, ideals, traditions . . . everything that we have done in these four happy years; everything that we now represent . . . can be found between the covers of this annual.

We leave our childhood behind us with a farewell glance and a sigh; then we look ahead to new worlds to conquer.

R.H.S. — A Retrospective

The 1983 school year marks the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Ramsey schools, and this year's yearbook serves as a commemoration to the many years of growth and progress, as well as a collection of friends and memories for the senior class of 1983.

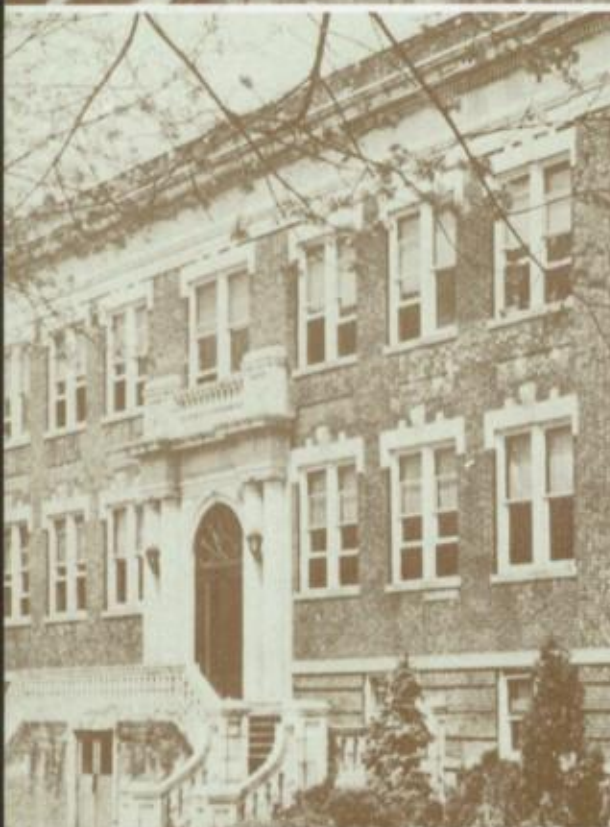

School days in earlier times were a far cry from today's modern programs. Free public education was not available in New Jersey until 1871. The usual course of instruction during this time went as far as our present eighth grade. Teachers were required to teach all grades in one room, and the school year was based on the demands of the surrounding farm communities. Boys often attended school only in the winter, since they were needed for farm chores throughout the rest of the year. Completion of a few terms was usually considered sufficient for girls, who were instructed in Home Economics and other "housewifely" duties. Webster's dictionary and the Bible were the two basic textbooks, and since paper was too expensive, each child was issued a slate which could be wiped clean and used over and over.

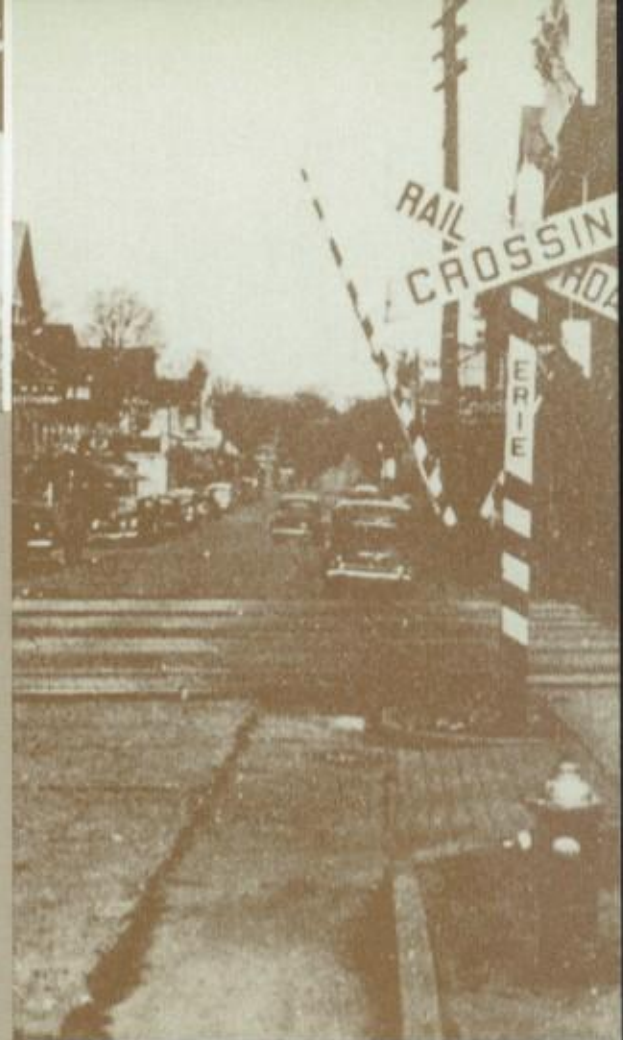

The earliest schoolhouse in the area was built at the intersection of present day West Main Street and Cherry Lane. It was constructed in 1840, and the one-room structure served its purpose until 1874, when the town felt a need for a larger and better equipped school. The "new schoolhouse" as it was called, was constructed on North Central Avenue at a cost of $1,464. Its two rooms were furnished for an additional $200, and provided adequate space until the need for a bigger school was realized in 1891.

In 1892 a two-story building was erected adjacent to the old schoolhouse to accommodate the town's growing population. This cost $6,000 and consisted of four large classrooms, and a board room. Toilet facilities were located outside; one for boys, one for girls, and drinking water was furnished by an outside well equipped with a pump. An addition was constructed in 1902 to help with increasing enrollments in the school system. The school is presently incorporated in the south wing of the Municipal Building on North Central Avenue.

Until 1908, Ramsey was part of District 56 of the Hohokus Borough. In that year, however, after Ramsey's incorporation, a board of education was formed and the Ramsey School System became an independent district. It is the founding of this organization that is remembered on this seventy-fifth anniversary. The high school curriculum was designed in 1908, so that a full four-year program was offered for the first time in 1909, and the first class, consisting of two members, was graduated in June of that year.

On account of the growth of the Borough, increased school facilities were again needed by 1911, not only for the high school department, but for the other grades as well. A site on School Street adjoining the old school was purchased for $4,000 and in 1912 a high school building was erected at a cost of $36,000. Additions in 1923 and 1930 increased the school's size to its present capacity. It currently houses grades K-5 and is known as the John Y. Dater Elementary School.

The present high school was opened in 1937, the same year which saw the transfer of grades K-8 to the Dater School from the North Central Avenue building. It included twenty-three regular classrooms, a library, a guidance office, cafeteria, gymnasium, auditorium and five special purpose rooms. Students were enrolled from the towns of Ramsey, Mahwah, Allendale, Waldwick, Wyckoff, Franklin Lakes, Saddle River, and Upper Saddle River. The cost of this original building was $733,679.22 which included a three-story structure on landscaped grounds of ten acres.

Many aspects of "school life" as we know it today were very different in 1937. The extensive sports and activities programs currently available were not in existence and the number of different courses that could be taught were very limited. The price of a complete school lunch at the time was 20¢, though our present day selection of "Bigwheels" and "Yodels" was not available.

As the years progressed, however, even the new high school became overcrowded. The problem was alleviated somewhat as many of the towns in the area began building their own schools, but the need for an addition was realized in 1966. By this time, all of the sending districts except Saddle River had been relocated to other area schools. The addition consisted of two stories and many needed classrooms, including science rooms with modern laboratory equipment. The total cost of this expansion was $2,279,031.05 which was financed by the town and the Board of Education. By this time the towns' population growth had slowed down so that further expenditures could be used to improve the quality of the curriculum as well as expanding extracurricular activities, instead of adding more classroom space. Even so, at times in the school's history the double-session method of instruction was necessary to accommodate the school population.

The most current addition to the physical plant of the original building was the 1976 construction of another gymnasium. Seating capacity was greatly increased and improved basketball and wrestling facilities were provided. The completion of the new auto shop, renovation of the Board offices, and redecorating of the cafeteria update the list of improvements.

The total number of students the school can presently accommodate is 1,296, while current enrollment figures place the school population at 1,003 pupils. A long list of talented, accredited teachers provide current students with 182 different courses to choose from; a number that seems to grow each year, so that every student is given the chance to concentrate on his/her special interests while also receiving instruction in the subjects needed for a well-rounded education.

Clearly, Ramsey's past and present are well defined and can be considered successful years in the history of the Ramsey school system. Predictions of declining enrollments, however, and the possibility that Saddle River might some day leave Ramsey High must surely raise questions about the future of Ramsey High School as we know it today. Only the young people who will grow up, mature and make the decisions of the future can decide what the coming years hold in store for our school and community, and we, the graduating class of 1983 wish them much luck and success.

Life Begins At 75

This year, as we celebrate Ramsey High School's 75th Anniversary, we look ahead as well as look back. For, as much as Ramsey enjoys a proud past, its future looks even brighter. School spirit is stronger now than it has been in recent years. Students are realizing the value of a good education as the key to a successful career and a prosperous life. They are taking an active part in making R.H.S. an even better place for intellectual, as well as social, growth. Saddle River students, faced with the prospect of attending another school, rallied to have their Board of Education sign a contract to continue the relationship with Ramsey. The school, in turn, is receiving a facelift. The lamp posts along the front of the building have been replaced after being absent for a while, enhancing the classic style and beauty of the old section. The windows were replaced after years of peeling and cracking. Computers were installed to keep Ramsey education current with the times.

So while other schools are closing, Ramsey is experiencing a renaissance, promising the next 75 years to be even better than the first.

Student Life

When we remember our high school years, our memories go beyond the classroom walls, the clubs, the sports and the activities that we have participated in and extend to those vague moments that we shared with others. They include parties, trips, jobs, and individual achievements that may or may not be school related. In an effort to capture some of these moments, we, the Nugget editors, have selected pictures and profiles of student activities which are somewhat representative of the world outside the school schedule. Entitled Student Life, it is meant to be just that.

Student Profiles

John Johnston

John always had an interest in acting but it wasn't until the ninth grade that he began classes in Ridgewood and got an agent in New York. Since then, not only has John been involved in school plays, but he has done many off-Broadway plays as well. In the summer of 1982, John received a scholarship to a performing arts camp. There he did eight weeks of shows and won best actor in the musical "Oklahoma!" John has just finished taking another acting class in Manhattan and is preparing for the off-Broadway play "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

Many people ask what has happened to John since ninth grade when he was around and active in school sports. He insists that he has not "crawled under a rock," as many people believe. When he is not auditioning for plays or T.V. shows such as "The Guiding Light," he is usually rehearsing. Rehearsals run for about two to three months since they are only on weekends. John also has many friends in the city and spends his free time there. Here at school, John does play chess and plans to letter in track this spring. Because of his love for acting, song writing, and singing, he hopes to attend the Julliard School of Arts. If not, he plans to go to Rutgers or SMU. If John does not pursue acting, he would like to write, direct and produce plays. Acting, he says, "is exciting and always a new experience." It is also very humbling because it takes about 100 auditions to get one job. John has about 70 more to go, but he is not able to give up.

Erik Sorensen

Erik began playing hockey twelve years ago at the age of five. When he first started, he was living in Brooklyn, New York. Currently he plays for the Ramapo Junior Saints, for the age group between 17 and 19. Home games are at Sport-O-Rama in Monsey, N.Y. Their opponents come from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut. In addition, they also play junior teams, prep schools, and local colleges. Erik's position on the team is left wing. His team has played in the Byrne Areana and the Nassau Coliseum. They have also traveled to Boston to compete. In March, they will play in the regional tournament, where they hope to qualify for the national tournament. Although the main hockey season is from September to March, Erik also plays in summer and spring leagues. He plans to continue the sport in college as a hobby, but has no plans for a professional career.

Leslie Gay

Leslie's interest in music began in the fifth grade when she decided that she wanted to play the flute. She played in the school band and studied privately. It wasn't until Leslie began high school that her interest grew more serious. By her sophomore year, she played first chair piccolo in the high school wind ensemble and during her junior and senior years, she played first chair flute. Leslie also became more interested in other areas of music. She learned to play the xylophone and bells and became a soloist for the high school marching band. With her interest in flute and keyboard, she began playing in the jazz ensemble where she also learned to play the saxophone.

With many decisions to be made during her senior year, Leslie decided that she wanted to study music in college. Also during that year, she auditioned for the North Jersey Region Band where she was selected to play in the Symphonic Band with the top student players in North Jersey. This enabled her to try for the New Jersey All-State Band where she was selected to perform with the finest musicians in the state. Leslie was selected seventh out of three hundred flutists who auditioned.

Leslie has been studying flute privately for five years and has performed in several recitals and for many community events. She enjoys teaching beginner flute students and has decided to continue her education in music where she hopes to pursue a career.

Bill Anton

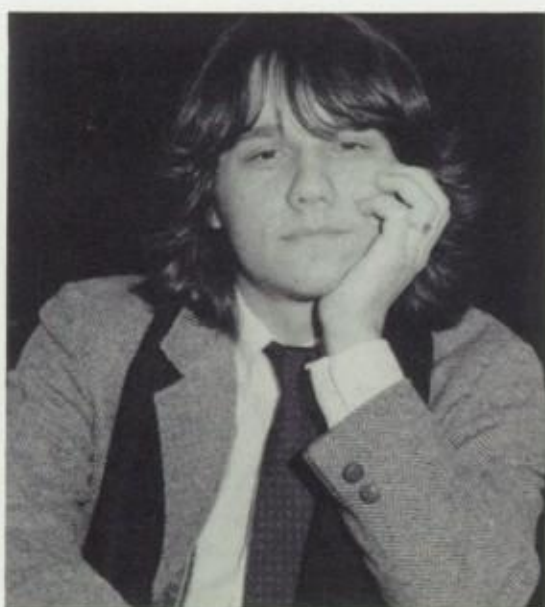

Last summer while we were all out "catching rays," Bill was busy becoming a national champion in boxing. Bill's father had been an Olympic weightlifter and had an interest in boxing. At the age of five Bill started boxing and by ten he began competing. Bill is presently coached by Tommy Parks, who is also Bobby Chyz's trainer. He works out at Lou Costello's in Paterson and sometimes in New York City.

At 147 pounds, Bill has a junior Olympic record of 22 knockouts and no losses. In June, 1982, he became state champion with three first round knockouts. He then went on to win the Regionals in Boston. In August of the same year, Bill went to the Nationals in Colorado. He entered the competition seeded third, and his first fight was against a #1 ranked boxer. Bill defeated him in three rounds, and then went on to win three more fights to become the national champion. Bill plans to enter the Pan-American Games in 1984 and then hopefully the Olympics in 1988. While in college he will remain an amateur and then turn pro as light heavyweight. After he finishes wrestling (another of his interests) for the school, he will begin training for the state tournament in June. His training consists of running six miles a day, jumping rope, hitting the bag, sparring, shadow boxing and lifting weights.

Bill's philosophy is that "out of the ring you have to be a gentleman. But in the ring, you must destroy your opponent or they will do it to you."

A little advice from Bill to everyone — "If you work hard, you can be a success."

Rob Smits

Rob has been interested in music and performing for many years and has been playing various instruments since the third grade. He began on the piano when he was eight years old and has since become proficient on the trumpet, guitar, electric bass, double string bass and flute. He currently plays the bass in the school band, as well as performing with several "outside" groups and a regional orchestra. On Saturdays, Rob attends classes at the Manhattan School of Music, where he currently has a scholarship for his abilities as an accomplished young musician. He uses the abilities to help make some money by teaching guitar and trumpet out of school, while also participating in the school's musical, and the literary magazine, Opus.

Rob's favorite music appears to be classical, though he also enjoys jazz and rock. Just recently, he was listed in "Who's who in Music" and last year he was voted best soloist of the Jazz Ensemble.

After high school, Rob hopes to continue studying music at a conservatory or school of performing arts. His first choices are the Manhattan School of Music or the Julliard School. After he finishes this training, he hopes to form a jazz group and compose, or else play classical music in the Philharmonic.

Jan Kemmerling

When Jan Kemmerling started swimming on the local swim team at age seven, she never imagined that ten years later she would be competing with the best in our country.

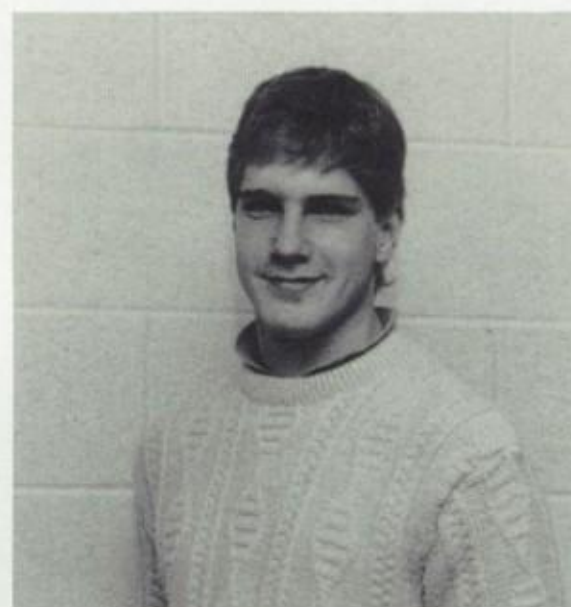

Jan started swimming competitively for the Bergen Barracudas when she was 12. She practices year 'round — 16 to 20 hours a week during the school year and 25 hours a week during the summer. The ultimate goal of a swimmer is the Nationals. The top 150 swimmers make the Junior-Nationals and out of these, the top 50 in the country make the Senior Nationals. This also includes Olympic contenders.

In the past seven years, she has qualified for and competed in four Junior National competitions. Last August, in her fourth Junior National, she won the 200 meter Individual Medley. Her time was the tenth best in the country in her age group.

This year she qualified for the Senior Nationals to be held in Indianapolis. She qualified in three events — the 500 freestyle, the 1000 freestyle and the 1650 meter freestyle.

In the high school state rankings, she is second in the 200 meter free, and second in the 500 meter freestyle. And what is the most important thing to be a good swimmer? Jan says, "A good mental attitude — without that, you're nothing."

Matt Schmelzer

Matt Schmelzer is a sophomore at Ramsey. Unlike most of the cyclists belonging to the Century Road Club of America who begin at age seven, Matt only began two and one half years ago.

Cycling is a sport much like track, Matt explains. The season begins in February and goes until late October. Cycling takes a lot of hard work and dedication, and during the spring the cyclists ride 60 miles a day. In the summer, they start at 6:30 every morning and follow a rigid eating plan which does not allow any partying. There are about 50 to 70 racers in each race. The sport requires a lot of teamwork. Matt races up front with other team members so the strongest can coast in the middle. If there is a break away Matt has to catch up and slow them down so the pack can take them back in. Although some of the members in Matt's club are Olympic contenders, Matt is only in it for the fun and the competition.

Rev Up!

The Car — The suburban teenager's ultimate possession. For the students of Ramsey High, the car is a symbol of status, mobility, and independence. Having a car means not having to depend upon parents, friends, or bicycles for transportation. It means being able to go shopping or to the beach or wherever on your own. Some lucky upperclassmen are fortunate enough to be given cars as they come of age, while others will buy their own used cars to tide them over until they can get a "real" car. Still others will scrounge for pennies saving up for that dream Porsche. Most kids, however, have to be content with borrowing Mom's old station wagon for now, but the fantasy of owning the ultimate car will continue forever.

“Working For The Weekend . . .”

When the bell rings at 2:43 not all students turn into athletes or soap opera addicts. Many are working hard. Aside from the valuable experience gained by working, what it usually comes down to is that money matters. Money matters for school, gas in the tank, new clothes and more often, the weekend. Ramsey High School students work in a variety of places such as: food stores, pizzerias, gas stations, shoes and clothing shops, sports stores and banks. It is almost impossible not to run into a hard working RHS student when in the vicinity. Now presenting a portion of the RHS working class . . .

SPORTS

BREAK ON THROUGH IN '82!

This year's Ramsey High School Varsity football team once again put together a winning season and captured their fifth consecutive Bergen-Passaic Scholastic League King Division Championship. The ability and swiftness of the Rams overpowered their opponents and they emerged with an undefeated 9-0 season. Although defeated by Bergenfield in the State Playoffs, they went ahead and successfully beat the Rams rival, Mahwah. Many Seniors received league honors and will be greatly missed by next year's team. But with the potential shown by this year's underclassmen, next year's team should be just as successful.

Cheering To Success

Dedication and hard work were the keys to the success of the 1982 Varsity Football Cheerleaders. In the group there were seven seniors and five juniors. Among the activities the squad was involved in this season were the numerous Blue and Gold days, and the frequent decorating of the cafeteria. Much of the squad's inspiration and support came from coach and advisor Miss Judy Bersano. For all the hard work this squad has exhibited it seemed only natural that they should cheer on a victorious undefeated team.

Soccer Kicks-Off Well

The Boy's Varsity Soccer Team turned in another successful season finishing with a 14-7-1 record and the King Division Championship.

In addition, the team qualified for the state and county tournaments. In the Counties, the Rams suffered a hard fought 1-0 loss to Ramapo in the first round. After this heart breaking defeat, the team set their sights on the state tournament. They advanced to the state sectional semi-finals with victories over Pascack Hills and a highly touted Englewood team. But hopes of a state championship were lost when the Rams were eliminated by Indian Hills in a 1-0 ball game.

The nucleus of the team was their experienced seniors. Forwards Chris Tedeschi, Erik Sorensen and John and Paul Micheline led the attack. The Rams were blessed with the arrival of two Colombian players, Julio Mejia and Milton Hernandez at midfield. Senior Dennis Roche anchored the defense at sweeper while senior Jim Rushworth and junior Larry McDonnell worked the fullback position. Sophomore Aldo Pagano played stopper and senior Steve Welch also saw action on defense.

The midfield was stabilized by the efforts of juniors John Mulcahy and Jon Harvey and sophomore Jon Sorkenn; sophomore John Chamberlin and junior Dean Perna rounded out the Ram offense. The excellent play of goalies Jack Hergenrother and Matt Zelek kept the team in control of many close contests.

The enthusiasm and hard work by Coach Edge proved vital throughout the year as the team continued in the winning tradition of Ramsey Soccer.

Nothing But Aces

Captain Meg McLaughlin and team member Mimi McLaughlin were selected to the All-County second team in doubles. Freshman Erica Winston was also selected to the All-County second team in singles. Team members include (L to R): Shelly Karofiles, Kristen Weber, Cindy Shannon, Meaghan McLaughlin, Robyn Katcher, Tracy Morris, Tracy Valenti, Coach Boggio, Liz Kraus, Kris Markewitz, Erica Winston, Amy Murray, Jennifer Hefter, and Mimi McLaughlin.

Sticking With It

The 1982 Field Hockey Team finished it's season with a record of 8 wins, 7 loses, and 2 ties. Compared to last season's record of 3 wins and 12 losses, it was a very successful year. The six returning seniors were Co-Captains Ellen Gottman and Rae Bares, Mindy McGlaughlin, Meredith Osborne, Donna Annechino, and Gina Rokose. With drive and determination, the Junior Varsity Team played well through a difficult season. The Hockey Team was led by two new Coaches, Mrs. Judy Heddy and Miss Jean Dickson.

Seniors from this year's team will be missed, but juniors like Kaye Van Orden, Shelly Bares, and Sue Zimmerman who have gained varsity experience this year may provide next year's team with a winning season.

With an undefeated record in league play (18-0) and a 21-3 record overall, the volleyball Rams won the league championship for the second year in a row. The team play was highlighted by the outstanding work of the only two returning varsity letter winners, senior captains Sue Murphy (setter, 2nd team All-County, 1st team BPSL King Division) and Karen Voorhis (spiker, 1st team BPSL King Division, Honorable Mention All-County). The dedication, enthusiasm, and hard work of this inexperienced team also led them to being ranked 8th in Bergen County. They earned a slot in the quarter-finals of the county tournament by beating Bogota, and a spot in the state tournament semi-finals (seeded 2nd). Other varsity players are juniors Karen Fraser (2nd team BPSL King Division) and Nancy Robinson (1st team BPSL King Division, Honorable Mention All-County). The J.V. team was also very successful with a record of 13-8.

Still Number One

Ramsey's Girls' Soccer Team surprised everyone with a 16-4 record this season, culminating with a league co-championship. At the outset of the season, all on-lookers, including Coach Stead, viewed this year as a rebuilding one. Through determination and hard work, the largely underclass team led by Co-captains Christine Auleta and Colleen Webb, demonstrated to opponents that they were no pushover. Senior Goalie Cindy Childs was given the starting position and performed excellently. The team also made appearances in the state and county tournaments. Next year's squad will be faced with the task of continuing the winning tradition of Ramsey's Girls' Soccer.

Racing To The Top

Both the Boy's and Girl's Cross Country Teams turned in winning records for 1982. The girls ended with a 4-2 slate, while the boys went undefeated, 12-0, in league competition and won the league championship. Juniors Darin Smith and John Hogan captained the Boys' squad, while Junior Patti Hoppin was the Girls' captain. With a strong corps of underclassmen returning, Cross Country is ready to capture many more league crowns in the future. The following team members received County and League honors: Holly Hagerman, First Team All-League; Patti Hoppin, Bonnie Koole, Katie Curran, Second Team All-League. All Cheer For Ramsey High

The spirited 1983 basketball cheerleading squads rallied enthusiasm for the victorious boys' basketball teams. Their cheering, heard along the sidelines during games, provided encouragement to the team. An unusual sight this season was the abundance of R.H.S. fans. Their participation, as well as the squad's cheering, combined to increase team spirit.

Rebounding To Victory

Ramsey Boy's Basketball rebounded from a disappointing 81-82 campaign to finish this season with a 13-7 record in the B.P.S.L. The team missed qualifying for the prestigious Bergen County Jamboree but did enter State Tournament play. Coach Biegel's squad, led by tri-captains Dennis Roche, John Mastandrea, and Chris Tedeschi, was a senior dominated team. In addition to the captains, seniors included forwards Rich Hatala and Vince Leonetti and center Tom Werner, who were the Ram mainstays. Juniors Kevin Gormley and Jim Hanson and Senior Mike Hughes came off the bench to round out the Ramsey attack. Highlights of the season included a victory over cross-town rival Don Bosco and last second wins over Manchester and Hawthorne. The enthusiastic Ramsey fans gave the squad an added advantage over the visitors. With J.V. team qualifying for the Northern N.J. tournament and the Freshmen playing the County tournament, Ram basketball can look forward to many successful seasons.

Strike After Strike

The varsity Bowling team turned in another successful season in the highly competitive B.P.S.L. Despite top players from last year's league championship team having graduated, this year's squad proved to be a dominant force in the league. Junior Mike Cole and Senior Eileen Conroy were the mainstays of Coach Kemps' fine team. Only time will tell how far this team will progress in future seasons.

Girls Face Tough Season

The 1982-1983 Girls' Basketball team was made up of many strong and determined players. Co-Captains Chris Auleta and Cindy Childs were the only senior players and kept the team's morale up through a not so successful season. The team gave strong performances against even the toughest competition. Juniors included Carmen Daniels, Karen Fraser, and Jackie Summer. With so many new players, the girls are sure to have a winning season next year, and give the team a shot at the league title.

Strength and Stamina

Exciting things happened for the 82-83 wrestling team. Although many good seniors were lost from last year's team, district champion Steve Peraino returned along with other veterans Todd MacGlashan, Jay Shortway, Mike Rupy, Dave Peraino, and George Matthews. The upper weight class this year was filled by popular Rich Dooley, Jack Pardo, and Paul Lessica. The team finished with an 8-4 record and hopes to continue its winning ways in the upcoming districts. J.V. completed an undefeated season.

Team captain Jay Shortway successfully completed his second dual meet season undefeated. Along with Co-Captain Steve Peraino they provided the leadership for the Varsity and J.V. teams. No Pain, No Gain

The high school physical fitness team known as the "Murray Nuts" is one of the school's most unique organizations. The Murray Nuts have given Ramsey High a lot to be proud of in the past. At their peak in 1972, the squad won the U.S. Marine Corps national championship. Even though the team no longer competes interscholastically, the members still give 100% effort. The exercise regimen they practice consists of sit-ups, pull-ups, push-ups, and running. The squad is led by Captains Jim Rushworth, Mark DeAngelis, Chris Wikoff, and Brian Barrow. Their coach is Mr. Burr.

Swimmers, On Your Mark . . .

The Ramsey Swim team has had yet another winning season. Practicing and hosting their home meets at the Ramapo College pool, their dedication to the sport once again led them to success. The Boys' team is coached by Mrs. Diane McRory. The Girls' team is under the guidance of Mr. Thomas Comiciotto. Both coaches are as dedicated to the sport as their swimmers are. Seniors Mark Kulik, Jim Jordan, Todd Yates, Leslie Boerner, and Lisa Katz will be missed, but the underclassmen on the team will ensure a strong unit in the years ahead.

Burning Up the Basepaths

Last year's edition of the Ramsey Lumber Co. came within one run of a state sectional championship and this year's squad will look to surpass this accomplishment. Early signs show that pitching will be the Ram's power. Seniors Todd MacGlashan, Andy Murray, and Bill Walsh will be the top starters. In addition, Mike Tallia, Peter Beebe, and Rich DeMase will fill in when needed. Syd Dufton's aggressive play behind the plate will add to the Ram's defense. Chris Tedeschi and John Dauenheimer will be at Second and Third base respectively. John Mastandrea will be at Centerfield and Rich Hatala should see some action in the outfield.

Underclassmen include Bob Surless, Peter Thayer, Mike Kahns, Tom Stow, Luke Chamberlin, Ken Gordon, Jeff D'Amico, Neal Heinze, Adam Bramwell, John MacKay, and Alex Szuch. Both the Boys' and the Girls' squads face a tough schedule in the B.P.S.L. With Ramsey's long tradition of track excellence, all their opponents will be eager to defeat them. Many returning runners will be ready to share their talent and experience and the team should enjoy another banner year.

Other returning varsity players include Karen O'Hearn, Joanne Consolazio, Kaye Van Orden, Nancy Robinson, Cheryl Del Colliano, and Karen Fraser. November 20th Homecoming Dance Held

On November 20, Ramsey High School underwent a major transformation. Students left their jeans and hiking boots in favor of semi-formal evening clothes. The gym and cafeteria became a place for a party as more than 200 students gathered for the 4th Annual Homecoming. Music by the Richie Wolfe Orchestra set the mood as participants partied the night away. The event was sponsored by the senior class; advisers were Mrs. Seltzer and Mrs. Krzeminski with organization by Mrs. Barbara Chamberlin.

Is it true that "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes?"

This year our school play, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" by Anita Loos, included students from all grades. Senior Diane Blessing starred as the beautiful but naive Lorelei Lee, who, along with her sidekick Dorothy, played by Laura Schumacher, experienced New York and Paris in a slightly off beat way.

Seniors Ben Stark as "Daddy" and John Johnston as Lorelei's boyfriend Henry, have a hard time coping with the many surprises in store for them as a result of Lorelei's and Dorothy's actions.

The musical incorporated talented students from R.H.S.; actors, musicians, stage and sound crews. Hours of work during and after school resulted in three superb presentations at the end of March.

The guard is under the instruction of Peter Cuirczak, Dan Murray, and Beth Willard, who are responsible for teaching and helping the members perfect their show. Captain Karen Allman, Rifle Sergeant Tricia Hasch, and Flag Sergeant Sue Chapman hope to lead the guard to a successful season in which they will defend their E.M.B.A. championship trophy. The Ramsey Big Blue Marching Band is comprised of 65 performing members who are selected from the 85 members in the instrumental music program. The organization begins their year in August with five days at band camp where the marching and music are taught in total. Throughout the season the band instructors work with the students to perfect the show for the many competitions. The highlight of the competitive season was the Tournament of Bands All Chapter Championship held in Bent Salem, Pennsylvania. Later that day they performed an exhibition in Elizabeth, New Jersey which marked their debut appearance in an Eastern Marching Band Association show. As well as competing, the marching band also plays at football games and town functions. The band is directed by Mr. Robert Bednar.

Wind Ensemble / Concert Band

The Wind Ensemble is a group of Ramsey High School's finest musicians. They are selected for their playing excellence in a blind audition conducted in December by the ensemble director, Mr. Bednar. Once chosen, the group's goal is to explore musical literature more technically demanding for the individual musician and for the group as a whole. Their efforts are directed toward a spring trip when members compete against bands from across the U.S. and Canada.

1983 R.H.S. Concert Band.

The Concert Band consists of 45 students most of whom are freshmen and sophomores. The group's aim is to teach and reinforce the basics of personal and group playing. Under the direction of Mr. Noel Young, they perform numerous concerts during the year both in Ramsey and in the Bergen County area. Efforts are focused on a spring trip taken in late May in which the band is adjudicated and critiqued along with many other bands from the U.S. and Canada.

Chorus / Jazz Ensemble

Richard Kraft accompanies the 1983 R.H.S. Chorus.

During the past years, the Ramsey High School Chorus has been active in several areas. In addition to a regular concert schedule, class trips included visits to nursing homes, civic organizations, Broadway musicals, and Rockefeller Center at Christmas and Hannukah. These trips provide a learning experience for the students while they entertain others. The Chorus constantly works together to develop vocal technique and basic music theory skills in order to understand and appreciate the music they perform. This year's twentieth annual Bergen County Chorus Concert was held in Old Tappan, N.J. Two students from R.H.S. were members of the chorus: Junior Cindi Spanier — soprano, and Sophomore Michelle Finkelstein — alto.

The Jazz Ensemble consists of 23 students who share an appreciation of the jazz style. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Bednar, the ensemble meets twice a week after regular school hours. The music performed is different from concert music in that it is more relaxed and free flowing. Improvisational playing is encouraged to help the student to attain a better understanding of the jazz style.

Once upon a yearbook . . .

This year, the Nugget staff began more as a unit than in years past. Having a few years experience at the game made us feel that we finally had it mastered. The editors were picked last June, and had all been to a training seminar before school ever let out. With a start like that, the year seemed to be a piece of cake.

John, Liz and Mrs. "D" went to a national convention of yearbook people in North Carolina in August, courtesy of the Ramsey Board of Education (thank you very much!!) We figured that after that the work would start. Right?

As September rolled around, we finally held our first meeting. The theme was easy — a 75th anniversary only happens once; you can't pass it by. Then the work actually began. The cover was taken twice, and the rest of the opening section took a lot more work than one might think. The rest of the year is just one big blur of pictures, copy, deadlines and editors; not to mention a few classes every now and then. By the end of the year, everyone on the staff was more than happy to see the yearbook finished at last. In it, though, holds a special warmth for each editor; made of memories of the laughter, the people, and the work that went into every word, every picture. The editors can cherish their yearbook more than anyone for the special times it brings back for them. That is the real purpose for these pages — to bring back the memories that it holds for everyone.

A meeting of the minds? Not usually.

Major section editors find picture selection a hard task.

Underclassmen prepare for the next deadline.

A meeting of the board to make another heavy decision.

It's what's between the covers that counts.

The staff all together . . . for once.

Aim High was always our motto.

OPUS

OPUS, Ramsey High School's literary magazine, is in its fifth year. Under the supervision of Mrs. Emily Aumiller, the editorial staff meets weekly to select short stories, essays, poetry, and artwork from those submitted by Ramsey students for publication. OPUS members hold creative writing clinics to sharpen their own writing skills as well as to develop their critical analysis.

The RAM is a student newspaper; students write, proofread, design pages, sell advertising space, and take photographs for each issue. An editorial staff consisting of 13 students, including a Foreign Desk Editor who presently resides in Germany, supervise the publication of five issues a year. The RAM is directed towards the student first. It attempts to educate him through reporting that which is accurate, newsworthy, and in-depth. Many Ramsey and Saddle River families subscribe to the RAM, and these mail-out subscriptions constitute a significant portion of sales. Mindful of its readership, the RAM covers a broad range of events and issues with a high degree of professionalism.

The National Honor Society essentially functions by providing leadership and scholarship opportunities for its members. It also supplies many valuable services to the school in the form of tutoring, scholarship funds through donut sales, and by holding a party for the special education students. Community services are performed in the way of senior citizen parties, book sales and art auctions, while county and state services include food drives and blood donation drives. President Steve Welch, Vice-President Rob Malestein, Secretary Janice McDonnell, and Treasurer Chris Tedeschi work with dedicated members to encourage individual growth and development through these volunteer services.

Leadership Consortium / S.O.S.

The Student Leadership Consortium consists of six student leaders who meet with students from other high schools monthly during the school year to share ideas, information, and mutual concerns. Each school in the Consortium group hosts one meeting during the year, so members are able to learn a great deal about different school facilities and programs. The goals of the Consortium, developed by the students, are (1) to establish an organized procedure for running inter-school meetings, (2) to promote a positive Student-Administration relationship, and (3) to promote inter-school activities.

S.O.S. members discuss methods to help fellow students.

Student Outreach service is a group of Ramsey High School juniors and seniors who work together throughout the year to help others who may have problems or concerns that are hard to face alone. Started three years ago by students who had experienced the frustration and fear of not knowing where to turn when faced with a personal crisis, SOS strives to serve as a liaison between students and service agencies in the area.

Members of SOS attend a special counseling course at Ramapo College, make visits to all the local agencies, and meet monthly to share ideas and plan activities. SOS maintains a strict code of confidentiality, which members stress to be the key to the group's success.

Debating / H.S. Bowl

Debaters receive help from Mrs. Brock.

The 1983 Debating Team

The 1983 Ramsey High School Bowl members.

The Ramsey Debate Club is an active member of the North Bergen Debate League. Each month debates are held at various Bergen County high schools where member teams from each school debate the designated topic for the year. Ramsey hosted one such debate on Dec. 9. Prizes are awarded for the highest scoring teams and individual speakers. The high point of the debating year is the Record Classic held at Ramapo College in the spring when the debates are judged by distinguished lawyers.

The High School Bowl is an academic competition involving 40 schools in the area. Teams consisting of four students compete on a UACC-TV quiz show in a single elimination tournament televised at William Paterson College. Team members have broad background knowledge and are very competitive. Members and alternates meet frequently during the season, practicing hundreds of questions in preparation for the televised quiz show.

Chem League / Math League

Under the direction of Mrs. Binder and Mrs. Purpi, Chemistry League members train diligently and rigorously for competition against tough teams from the best high schools in New Jersey.

All interested students were invited to participate in meetings and practice sessions for the Chemistry I and Chemistry II teams. In addition, students work independently to master challenging problems in advanced topics in preparation for the meets. At the January home meet, the Ramsey Chem League was host to sixty members of the New Jersey Science League. A highlight of the event was the dynamic debut of the Chem League cheerleaders. In addition to the Chem League meets, other special activities have been planned that deal with chemistry. Students have taken trips to chemical facilities and have listened to guest speakers.

The 1983 Math League.

The Math League provides the students with the opportunity to use their mathematical ability in a competitive atmosphere. Meets are held twelve times a year, and the students are given problems which must be solved within a specific time limit. Individual as well as team awards are given at the end of the year.

A.F.S./Library Council

Ramsey High School chapter of the American Field Service.

Alexandra Garcia cheerfully works in the library.

The American Field Service is an organization which coordinates student exchanges to promote a better understanding amongst people on a local, national, and international level.

Through A.F.S. foreign students can come to the United States to learn about American culture, while American students are sent abroad to learn about other countries. This year the Ramsey chapter of the A.F.S. is hosting two foreign students; Julio Mejia from Columbia and Jens Jungen from Switzerland.

Julio Mejia relaxes during an A.F.S. meeting.

Library Council

The Library Council.

With a multitude of books to contend with, the librarians have a difficult task to keep track of each volume. The Library Council aids the librarians at their job. They return books to the shelves, and keep a record of books out of the library. Without the group, the library would not run as smoothly as it does.

The high school chess club has a membership of 23 students, ten of which play competitive chess as members of the B.P.S.L. Chess Division. Ramsey High has had a team for 12 years, each coming close to the league championship. This year the team used superior strategy to outmaneuver Passaic Tech in the finals to clinch the league title. Captain John Valenti and senior Mark Heinze placed first and second in the league, respectively.

John Valenti, first in the league, concentrates on his next move.

Stage Crew

Crew members carefully maneuver props beneath the stage.

The dedicated 1983 Stage Crew.

Jane Zuroff lights the stage at R.H.S.

Lighting, sound, props, and scenery come under the responsibility of the Stage Crew. They not only work behind the scenes during a play or musical, but also provide lighting for R.H.S. dinners and dances. The crew, led by Cathy Dewey and Hazel Becraft, contribute numerous hours to make a production or special event successful.

VICA members are enrolled in Cooperative Industrial Education at Ramsey High School. All members are involved in working towards the following goals: a career, personal independence, recognition for the skills that they are developing, the ability to make a difference in their community, and the ability to develop business and professional contacts.

D.E.C.A. is a nationwide high school organization in which members become involved with the local business community. D.E.C.A. functions as a part of the high school's Marketing and Distributive Education program. The D.E.C.A. members participate in local, state, and national marketing competitions, giving the students a broader perspective on marketing careers and the business world. Ramsey students did exceptionally well in the competitions this year and look forward to similar victories next year.

Junior Historical Asso. / C.O.E.

J.H.A.

This is a new community-service group which began in the fall of 1982. Its members work with the Ramsey Historical Association in an effort to preserve the Old Stone House Museum through a variety of activities. These include serving as tour guides, helping with fundraisers, and taking part in maintenance and decoration. Members wear costumes faithful to the 1700's when giving tours and they increase their knowledge of colonial times in the area by visiting other historic sites and studying lifestyles and customs of the period. Plans for the year include organizing and taping a "living history" show at the Stone House in order to preserve the knowledge of Ramsey's early history held by today's senior citizens.

C.O.E.

Cooperative Office Education is a program to teach students office skills and place them in jobs. Students must be at least sixteen years of age. They must display good work habits and be able to work at least 15 hours a week at an office related job. Students receive 5 credits for completing the class and 5 credits for successful completion of on-the-job training at an approved work station. The class itself is a learning experience, with each day being different. There are skill days, as well as class meeting days. Carolyn Brenner is the C.O.E. President, Eileen Fanning, Vice President; Joan Spaldo, Secretary; and Barbara O'Donnell, Treasurer. Nancy Eames is Historian, and Diane Blessing is the Reporter.

The Audio Visual Aid members are responsible for the distribution and collection of all audio and visual equipment in the school. Each member must be knowledgeable about all of the sophisticated equipment in the school's inventory. They provide invaluable assistance to faculty and students alike.

The members of the Guardian Angels League are Ramsey High School's athletes spirit boosters. The GAL girls really pep up our athletes' morale by anonymously decorating their lockers with colorful streamers and filling them full of edible goodies. The GAL members really dedicate themselves to the glory of old Ramsey High by giving their all to brighten up everyone's day before a big game.

FACULTY

Mr. George R. Rizzo Principal

High Schools endeavor, through their offerings, to bring students into contact with the great ideas that have shaped the ages; to create opportunities for obtaining insights into the arts, the sciences, and the humanities; and to assist their students in the pursuit of their special academic, co-curricular and extra-curricular interests.

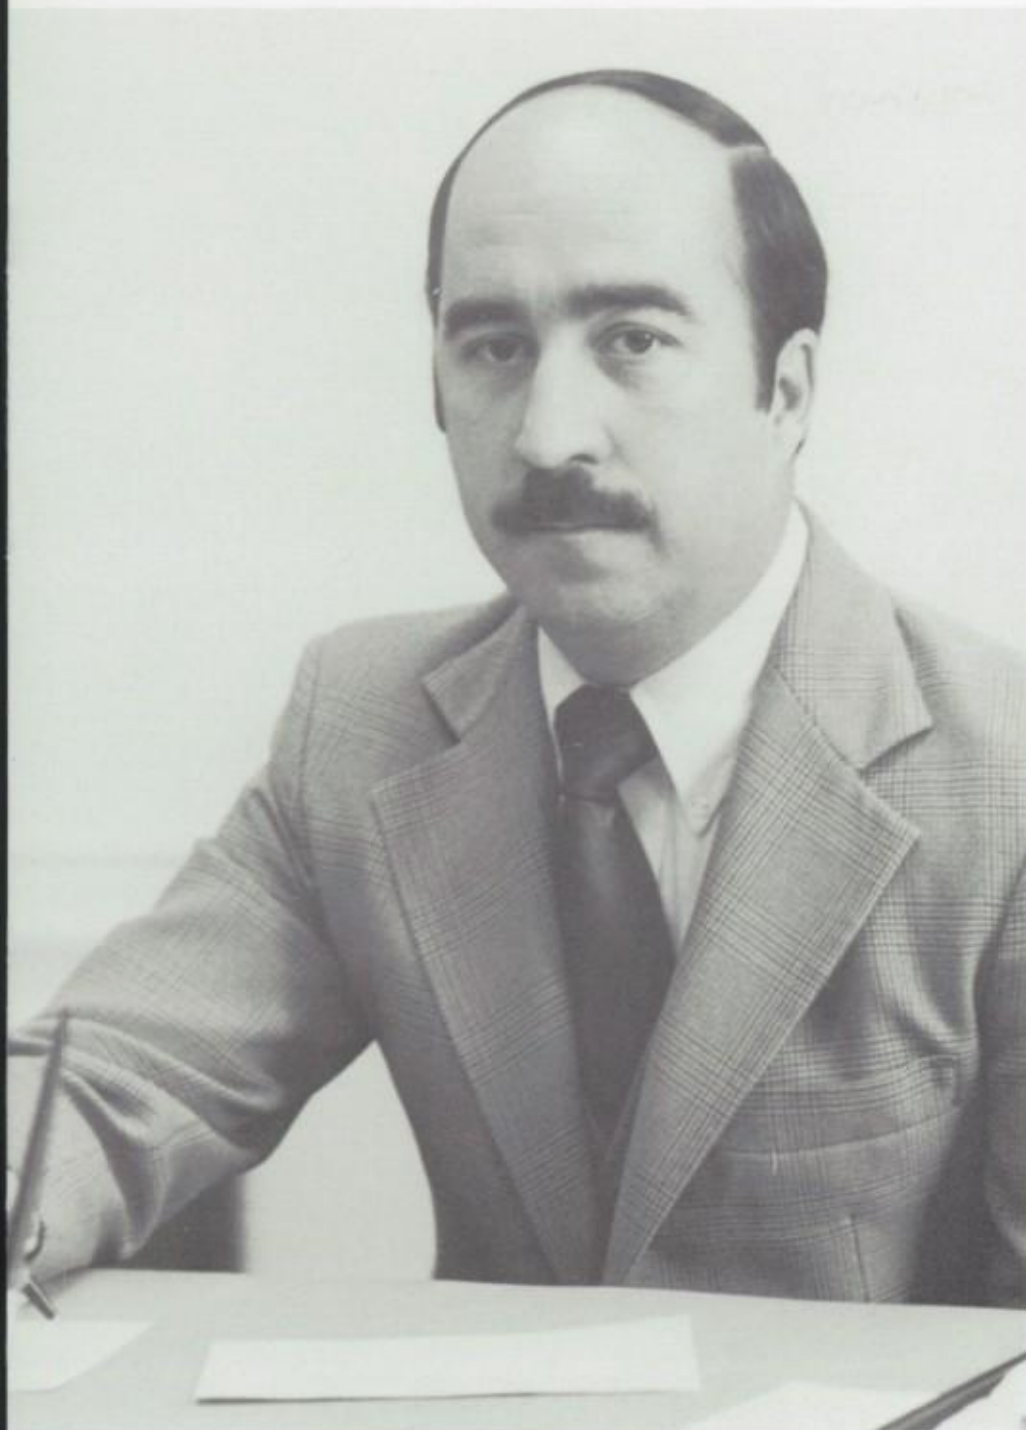

As a graduate of such an institution, you can be justly proud. Ramsey High School has, for three-quarters of a century, provided that breadth of experiences. In the process it and its students have gained a reputation for academic excellence.

It is my sincerest wish that each of you will leave our school with fond memories of the challenges you encountered and the knowledge that you have been well-prepared to be a success in the future.

Mrs. Cynthia Porter, Secretary to Mr. Rizzo

Mr. Thomas J. Melville Vice Principal

Everyone who has even been a high school student has memories of good times and bad, of satisfaction and failure, of friendship and loneliness. None of you will be any different. Remember that what you do, say, and think today will be your memories tomorrow.

Mrs. Jeanette Ciccone, Secretary to Mr. Melville

Secretaries

Before someone entering Ramsey High School ever meets with a teacher, sees an administrator or enters a classroom, he or she comes in contact with a member of the secretarial staff. It is that quick smile, that cheerful "Can I help you?" that sets such an important tone at Ramsey High. Students, parents and visitors alike have benefited from these fine services.

Counselors Guide Students in the Right Direction

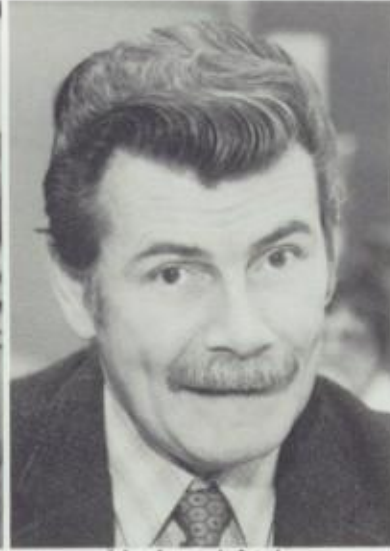

The belief of the guidance counselors of Ramsey High School is that each student is unique. Each one possesses his or her own interests, needs, talents, and goals. Each student has the opportunity to develop a close, personal relationship with a professional who offers counseling for educational or social problems. Counselors hope to help students resolve their problems, and thereby lead a more productive and well-adjusted high school life.

English Department — Not Just Reading and Writing

The English Department, through a variety of courses ranging from General English to Project Advance, tries to develop in the student the ability to communicate. This is accomplished by teaching certain basic skills, and helping the student to think perceptively. This enables the student to react intelligently and to make constructive contributions to society.

History Sometimes Repeats

The goal of the Social Studies Department is to develop in the student an appreciation for our American heritage, and an understanding of this complex world in which we live. There are a variety of courses offered, other than the required American History, which may be taken depending on the students' personal interests. The department stresses not just dates, but rather the patterns which have occurred in the past, and repeat themselves in the present. Through the study of our government and current events, a student is encouraged to think for himself, which prepares him to understand and participate in local and federal governments. He can then play a essential role in building a better society to live in.

Math Is Fun For Everyone

The Math Department of Ramsey High seeks to provide an excellent Mathematics education for everyone. Courses range from basic skills to calculus, with various college preparatory courses in between. Adding to this list of varied courses are classes in computer programming and probability and statistics. The hard work and dedication of the teachers is well worth their time, as shown by the excellent performance of Ramsey's students on standardized tests in the Math League, and by the exemption of many students from calculus in college.

Science: The Developing Frontier

In a society where technological advances occur everyday, the need for a more complex science curriculum becomes increasingly important. The goal of the Science Department, therefore, is to meet the demands of society and prepare a student for advancement into college, and to the world. A student can take courses ranging from Earth Science to Advanced Chemistry and Physics, and, starting this year, Oceanography. The sciences offer a firm base for the student in this changing, increasingly complex world.

Mr. Ralph Giannella

What Language Do You Speak?

Although the study of a foreign language is not required to graduate, many students take advantage of this privilege during some part of their high school career. A student need not even travel out of the United States to feel the need to be able to speak a foreign language. The goal of this department is to enable the student to communicate in another language, through the development of listening, reading, writing, and speaking skills. In order for students to actively apply what they have learned in class, the department schedules visits to museums, restaurants, movies, and foreign countries where the language is spoken.

Business As Usual

The primary goal of the Business Department is to prepare students to be a contributing force in the business world beyond the doors of Ramsey High. Such courses as typing, stenography, and accounting give the student a fine background in these areas, encouraging future study. The Business Department develops skills such as notetaking, typing, and competency in monetary management that prepare the student for employment, education, and life in the real world.

Artistic Manifestation

The Fine Arts Department at Ramsey High is concerned with the development of a student's artistic ability. This ability may surface in a variety of ways. It may be seen in the preparation of food, a performance on the piano, or the delicate art of finger painting. Whatever the talent may be, the department helps direct the student's thoughts and feelings into something tangible. The supervisor is Mr. Martin White (not pictured).

Fix-It Yourself

The Industrial Arts Department seeks to provide the student with the necessary training to survive in this highly technological society. It gives the student the chance to develop valuable skills in woodworking, metal working, drafting, electronics, and automotive repair. The skills developed are geared not only to those planning on advancing in this field, but also for the regular student, who, as a consumer, must be aware of automobile malfunctions, product quality, and the costs associated with them.

Everyone Deserves Special Attention

Nearly everyone in Ramsey High, during some part of his high school career, will experience the need of the services offered by our Child Study Team. This team includes the school psychologist, the social worker, and the learning consultant, all of whom work to help resolve learning and social problems that may be encountered during a student's high school career. The school nurse, a part of the Child Study Team, oversees the health of all students. Also included in this list is the speech and learning consultant, who helps students with communication problems.

Physical Education is not just Fun and Games

The Health and Physical Education Department plays an important part in the physical and mental development of the student. The department tries to provide a climate in which students are exposed to experiences which furnish opportunities for the student to develop and maintain a satisfactory degree of physical efficiency for daily living. Many of the activities introduced are ones which can be carried over into the adult life. The programs, such as Health and Drivers Education, help to develop physical and social qualities in each student. The total program is designed to meet the interests and abilities of the individual.

Future Gym Teacher?

Administration

The Ramsey Board of Education acts as the backbone of the school system. Not only do they call snow days and hold meetings, but it is their responsibility to set budgets, negotiate teacher salaries, handle complaints, and decide upon the curriculum to be used in the schools. The Board should be commended for the superb job they do to keep the Ramsey School System one of the best.

Mrs. Villie Corizzi

The Retired Life

Ramsey High School has, over the past two years lost four of it's fine faculty members to retirement. Last year it was Mrs. Corizzi — chemistry teacher, Mrs. Plevan — French teacher, and Mrs. Simpson — school nurse. This year Mr. Rodger Crum will retire. All four faculty members put in many long and involved years at R.H.S., ranging from the chemistry league to the French club.

What, then, do such active and inspiring faculty members do when they leave the boundaries of Ramsey High? Mrs. Corizzi is presently spending her winters in Lake Placid, perfecting two of her favorite hobbies, cross-country skiing and ice skating. In the summer, she travels to Florida where she takes tennis lessons, jogs, and goes to the beach. Mrs. Plevan and Mrs. Simpson, however, have decided to stay in the area. Mrs. Plevan plays bridge and travels. Mrs. Simpson, our former school nurse, who has spent most of her life taking care of others, is relaxing, enjoying herself, and staying active.

Mr. Crum, who is just retiring this year, is planning on working with his bees and tending to his apple orchard. These activities will keep him active.

We, the members of the yearbook staff, wish to thank these teachers for the knowledge that they shared with us, and our nurse, who helped us through the bad times. We would also like to wish them the best of luck in their retirement.

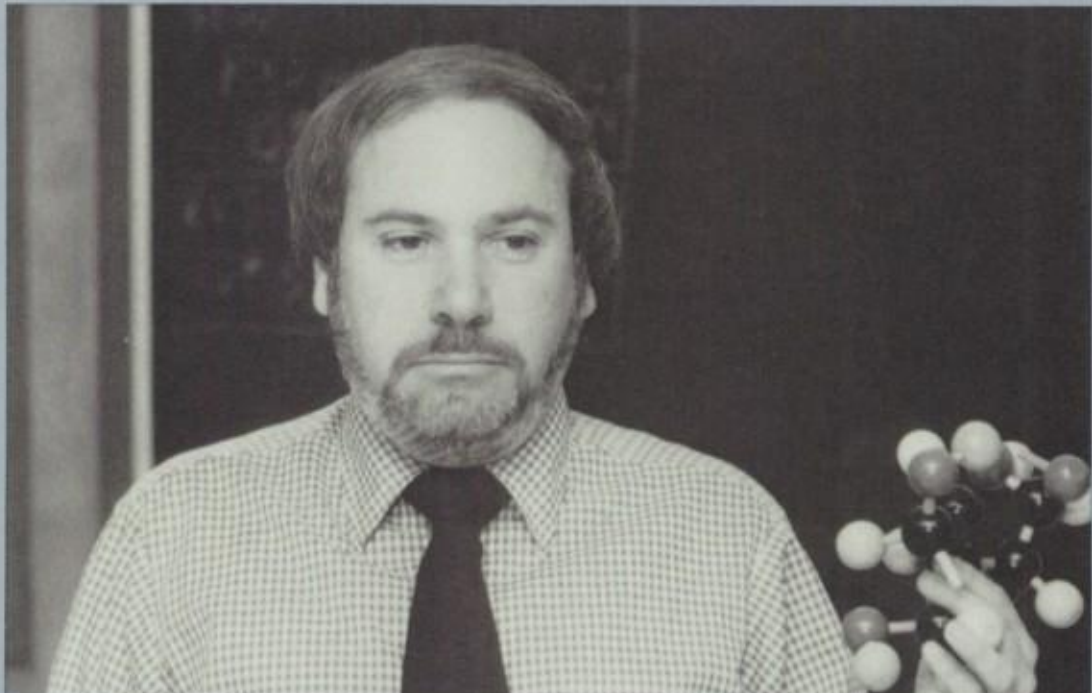

Mrs. Helen Plevan

"It's just, like , totally tubular."

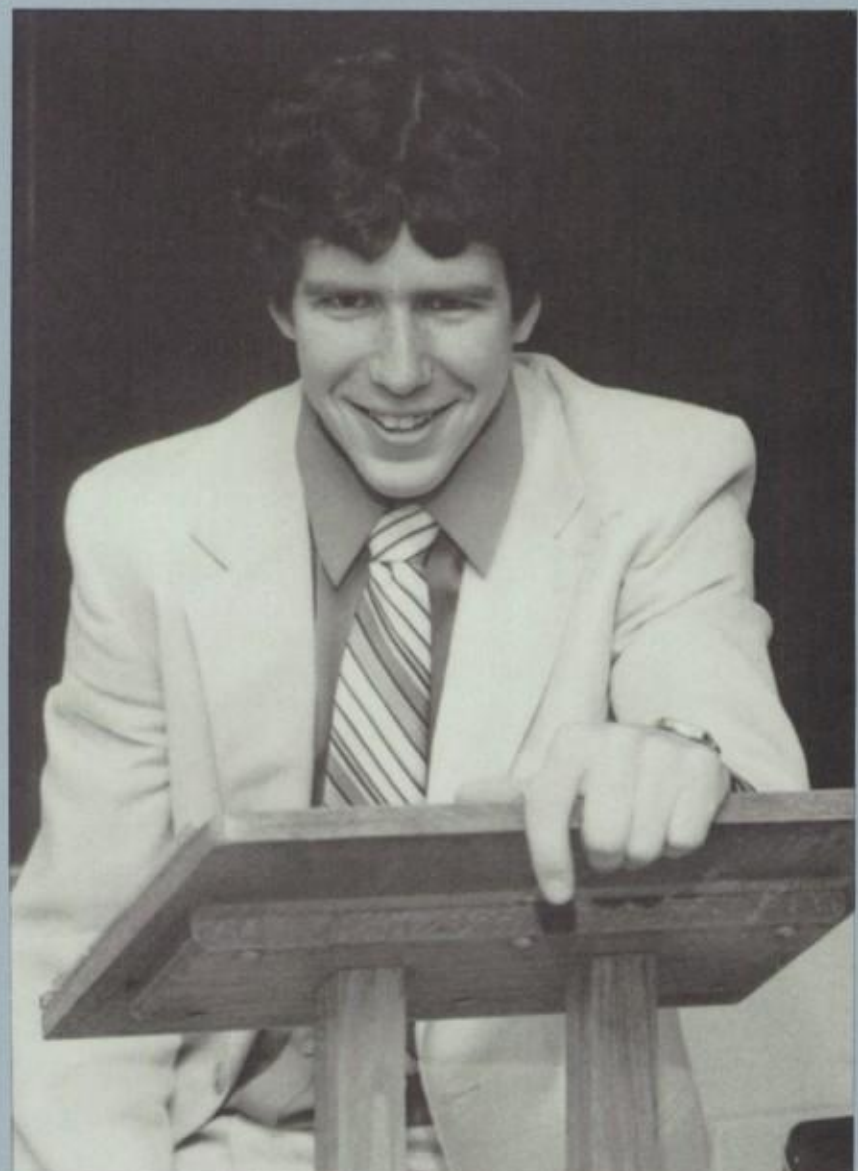

"Take me; I'm yours!"

"O.K.; who said science is boring?"

Ramsey High School's newest secretary?

"You can't be serious."

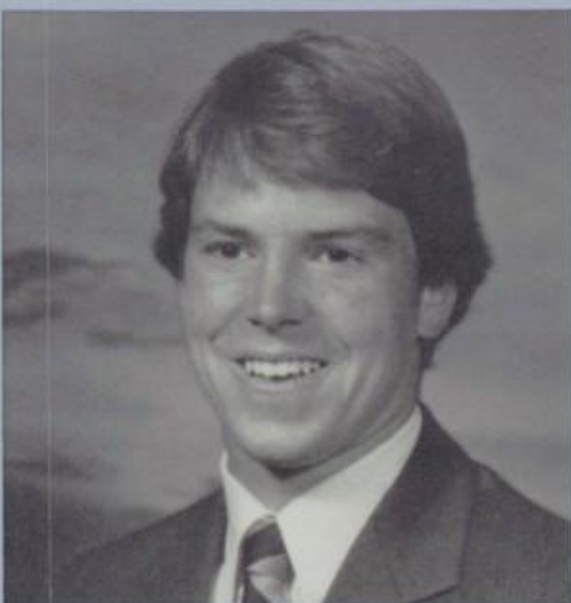

Mrs. Kramer and granddaughter Jill Thayer.

R.H.S. Seniors ... And a Generation Later

America is on the move and has been for many years. Often times a student will attend two or three different schools prior to graduation. In Ramsey, however, there seems to be a thread of continuity.

Some teachers at Ramsey High were once students in this very building. Others are now teaching sons and daughters of previous students.

In polling the senior class, several students volunteered that their father or mother; and in one case a grandmother, had graduated from R.H.S. Some students were even willing to share their pictures with us. To those who made this page possible, thank you!

Steve Welch and his mother Holly.

Lisa Santonacita

The Special Education students in Ramsey High School — Linda Patmalnee, Lisa Santonacita, Patty Wambach, Dawn Childs, Laura Partin, Mary Beth Heymen, and Robby Meador — enjoy a full day of high school. Their curriculum is focused on vocational training which is received in the classroom, but they also take home economics, music, wood shop, art and phys. ed. courses. They also take time during each week to go swimming and bowling.

Another year of school has come and gone. It's hard to believe it's over already. Can you remember the first day? It seems so long ago. Everyone was filled with the dread of another school year, but also the happiness of seeing friends again.

As the year progressed, some relationships would flower and wither; while others would become friends for life. Seniors would find new freedom with the privileges of their rank, but were also pressured to get into college. "What school are you going to?" became a popular topic.

Social life got fully under way in the fall, along with many sports and activities. The football team's undefeated season led to many victory parties. The soccer team also had an excellent record. It was a banner year for fund drives in school. There were record high sales in carnations, balloons and bake sales. The Honor Society Blood Drive had an unprecedented turn out.

Soon another Christmas vacation would be here, providing students with a much needed break. The cold weather did not bring much snow at first, much to many skiers' chagrin. Then, during February vacation, we were hit with a blizzard. Snow fall was recorded at 17 inches, and yardsticks were needed to measure the drifts. Indoor life was sparked by a successful basketball team. Fans responded with a huge showing of school spirit, culminating in an appearance by "Dunkin", the New Jersey Nets' mascot.

As spring finally arrived, thoughts of many students turned away from school books. Soon the prom would take place. Seniors were having final celebrations in preparation for graduation. This was their hour in the limelight, and they intended to take full advantage of it. For them, Ramsey High

In 75 Years, This One's Only Once . . .

School would soon be only a memory. It was a time for celebration and remembering when they, too, were freshmen. As graduation and summer came, the senior class became a diverse group of people with a common memory of four years here. They would see each other again, but high school life was an experience they could never duplicate.

Soon, September would be here. New seniors would arrive to take the place of those who left, to enjoy their moments in the sun. Before you know it, they'll be looking back at their senior year and saying, "It all went so fast . . ."

For seventy five proud years, Ramsey High has been going through this cycle. For seventy five years, it has been a leader in its field.

Seniors — Looking Back

Just when you thought you were out of high school safely, and that this book was finished and you looked pretty good in all your pictures; you came to this page. We don't mean to embarrass anyone greatly, but rather to remember our past years at Ramsey. When you look back through old photo albums, it's hard to believe that you once looked like that, and that some friends haven't changed as much as others. As we, the senior class move on, let us look back at a time when graduation was not so near.

Double Exposure

Among the many things that make the class of '83 unique is the fact that six sets of twins are among the graduating seniors. Three of these sets are identical, in feature if not personality, and three sets fraternal.

Many a time a teacher or student has been confused as to which twin they have just spoken to. Equally confused is the twin who replies, "but I'm _____, not _____," in answer to a passing salutation. Try your hand at identifying who is who among the following pairs without benefit of captions. Answers can be found on page 219.

And Now A Word From Our Sponsor . . .

When I was originally thinking about the opening section of this year's book last summer, I planned something so super tremendously fantastic that it would take the school by storm. But then reality set in. Budgets cut back the number of color pages. Students weren't available when the photographer was. And not all the companies we asked were willing to cooperate with us. Still, even with all the reductions, it took a huge amount of time and effort to complete. To the following people, I wish to express my thanks and gratitude for all their work in making the opening section such a success:

Ellen Gottmann — the girl who only wanted to work on a small part of the yearbook and got dragged into all this.

Mr. Robert Sciarrino — better known as just "Bob", for all his patience and expertise in photographing the entire section.

Steve Welch — the only person who actually worked on writing the report on R.H.S. history. To the companies and their employees who were so kind as to let us come in and use their products:

Mrs. Irene Weingartner of Sealfon's of Ridgewood

Mrs. Marion Barnett of Saks Fifth Avenue

Miss Dawn VanSyckel of BMW of North America

Mrs. Evelyn DePierro of Porsche — Audi of North America

Ms. Monika Bodner of Mercedes Benz of North America

And lastly to the student models; some of whose pictures did not get in, but said "cheese!" for us just the same:

Donna Annechino

Rae Bares

Carla Capaci

Jeff Creamer

Mike Erikson

Kenny Ford

Rob Hahn

Jim Jordan

Bonnie Koole

Janice McDonnell

John Micheline

Janet Negrini

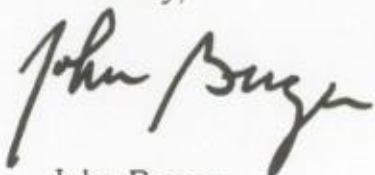

Meredith Osborne

Again, to all of you — THANKS SO MUCH — none of this would have been possible without you.

Sincerely,

John Burger

Closing Remarks

As with all yearbooks, the goal for each edition is to record all the occurrences of that year for posterity. It is the annual file of events for the school, and especially for the departing seniors. This year's Nugget was no different, and we strived hard to mark this year for the prestigious anniversary we are celebrating.

This is my third year working on the yearbook, which, I believe, is some kind of record. I am very proud of my work, and look back upon the time with fond memories of staffs come and gone. Things did not always run as smoothly as I would have liked, but it's too late now to change. This year's crew was similar to ones past. We had editors who succeeded tremendously, and others who did not do as well as hoped. We had our parties, although not to the extent of the past. We even had our second "yearbook couple," two people whose relationship was as unlikely as the first couple two years ago. A diverse group of people gave the book a fresh look. These people, and especially those listed below, are to be recognized and thanked for their achievements:

- Mrs. "D"; my second mother, the woman who brought me up through the ranks, and taught me everything I know about this business. I can't thank her enough.
- Liz Pilecki; about the only thing we could definitely agree on was where to get good Chinese food. All differences aside, I'm glad to have had someone as competent as she for my aide.
- Erik Sorensen, Meredith Osborne, and Ann Graff; the three who restored my faith that yearbooks could actually have a good sports staff.
- Rob Malestein; whose "laid back" style kept me wondering where his pages were "laid back" at.
- Andy Grott; who was so quiet about his work that I never knew if he enjoyed it or not.
- Steve Welch; the "brain" on the staff, who corrected us when we dangled our participles and messed up our spelling.
- Ellen Gottmann; a busy young woman with barely enough time to cover our smallest section.
- Leslie Gay; an editor whose talents sometimes led her away from the book.
- Stacey McEvoy and Lesley Cohen; our cracked business staff. I'm still amazed that they sold so many ads.
- Krissy Markewitz; who, after varying amounts of chaos, turned out a terrific section.
- The Administration; for their consideration and generosity, and for letting us bend a few rules occasionally.
- The Teachers; who lost students in the wake of impending deadlines.
- Bill Tilley; our publisher's representative, for his technical advice and help with the publisher when we needed it.
- Almar Photo; and especially Bob Sciarrino, for all the terrific service and friendship, something difficult to do without.
- And the innumerable other people who helped, for their time taken to give us a hand.

These editors I am proud and honored to call my co-workers and friends. I toast you all, and the fantastic book that you made; one that everyone in Ramsey High School can cherish.
Sincerely,

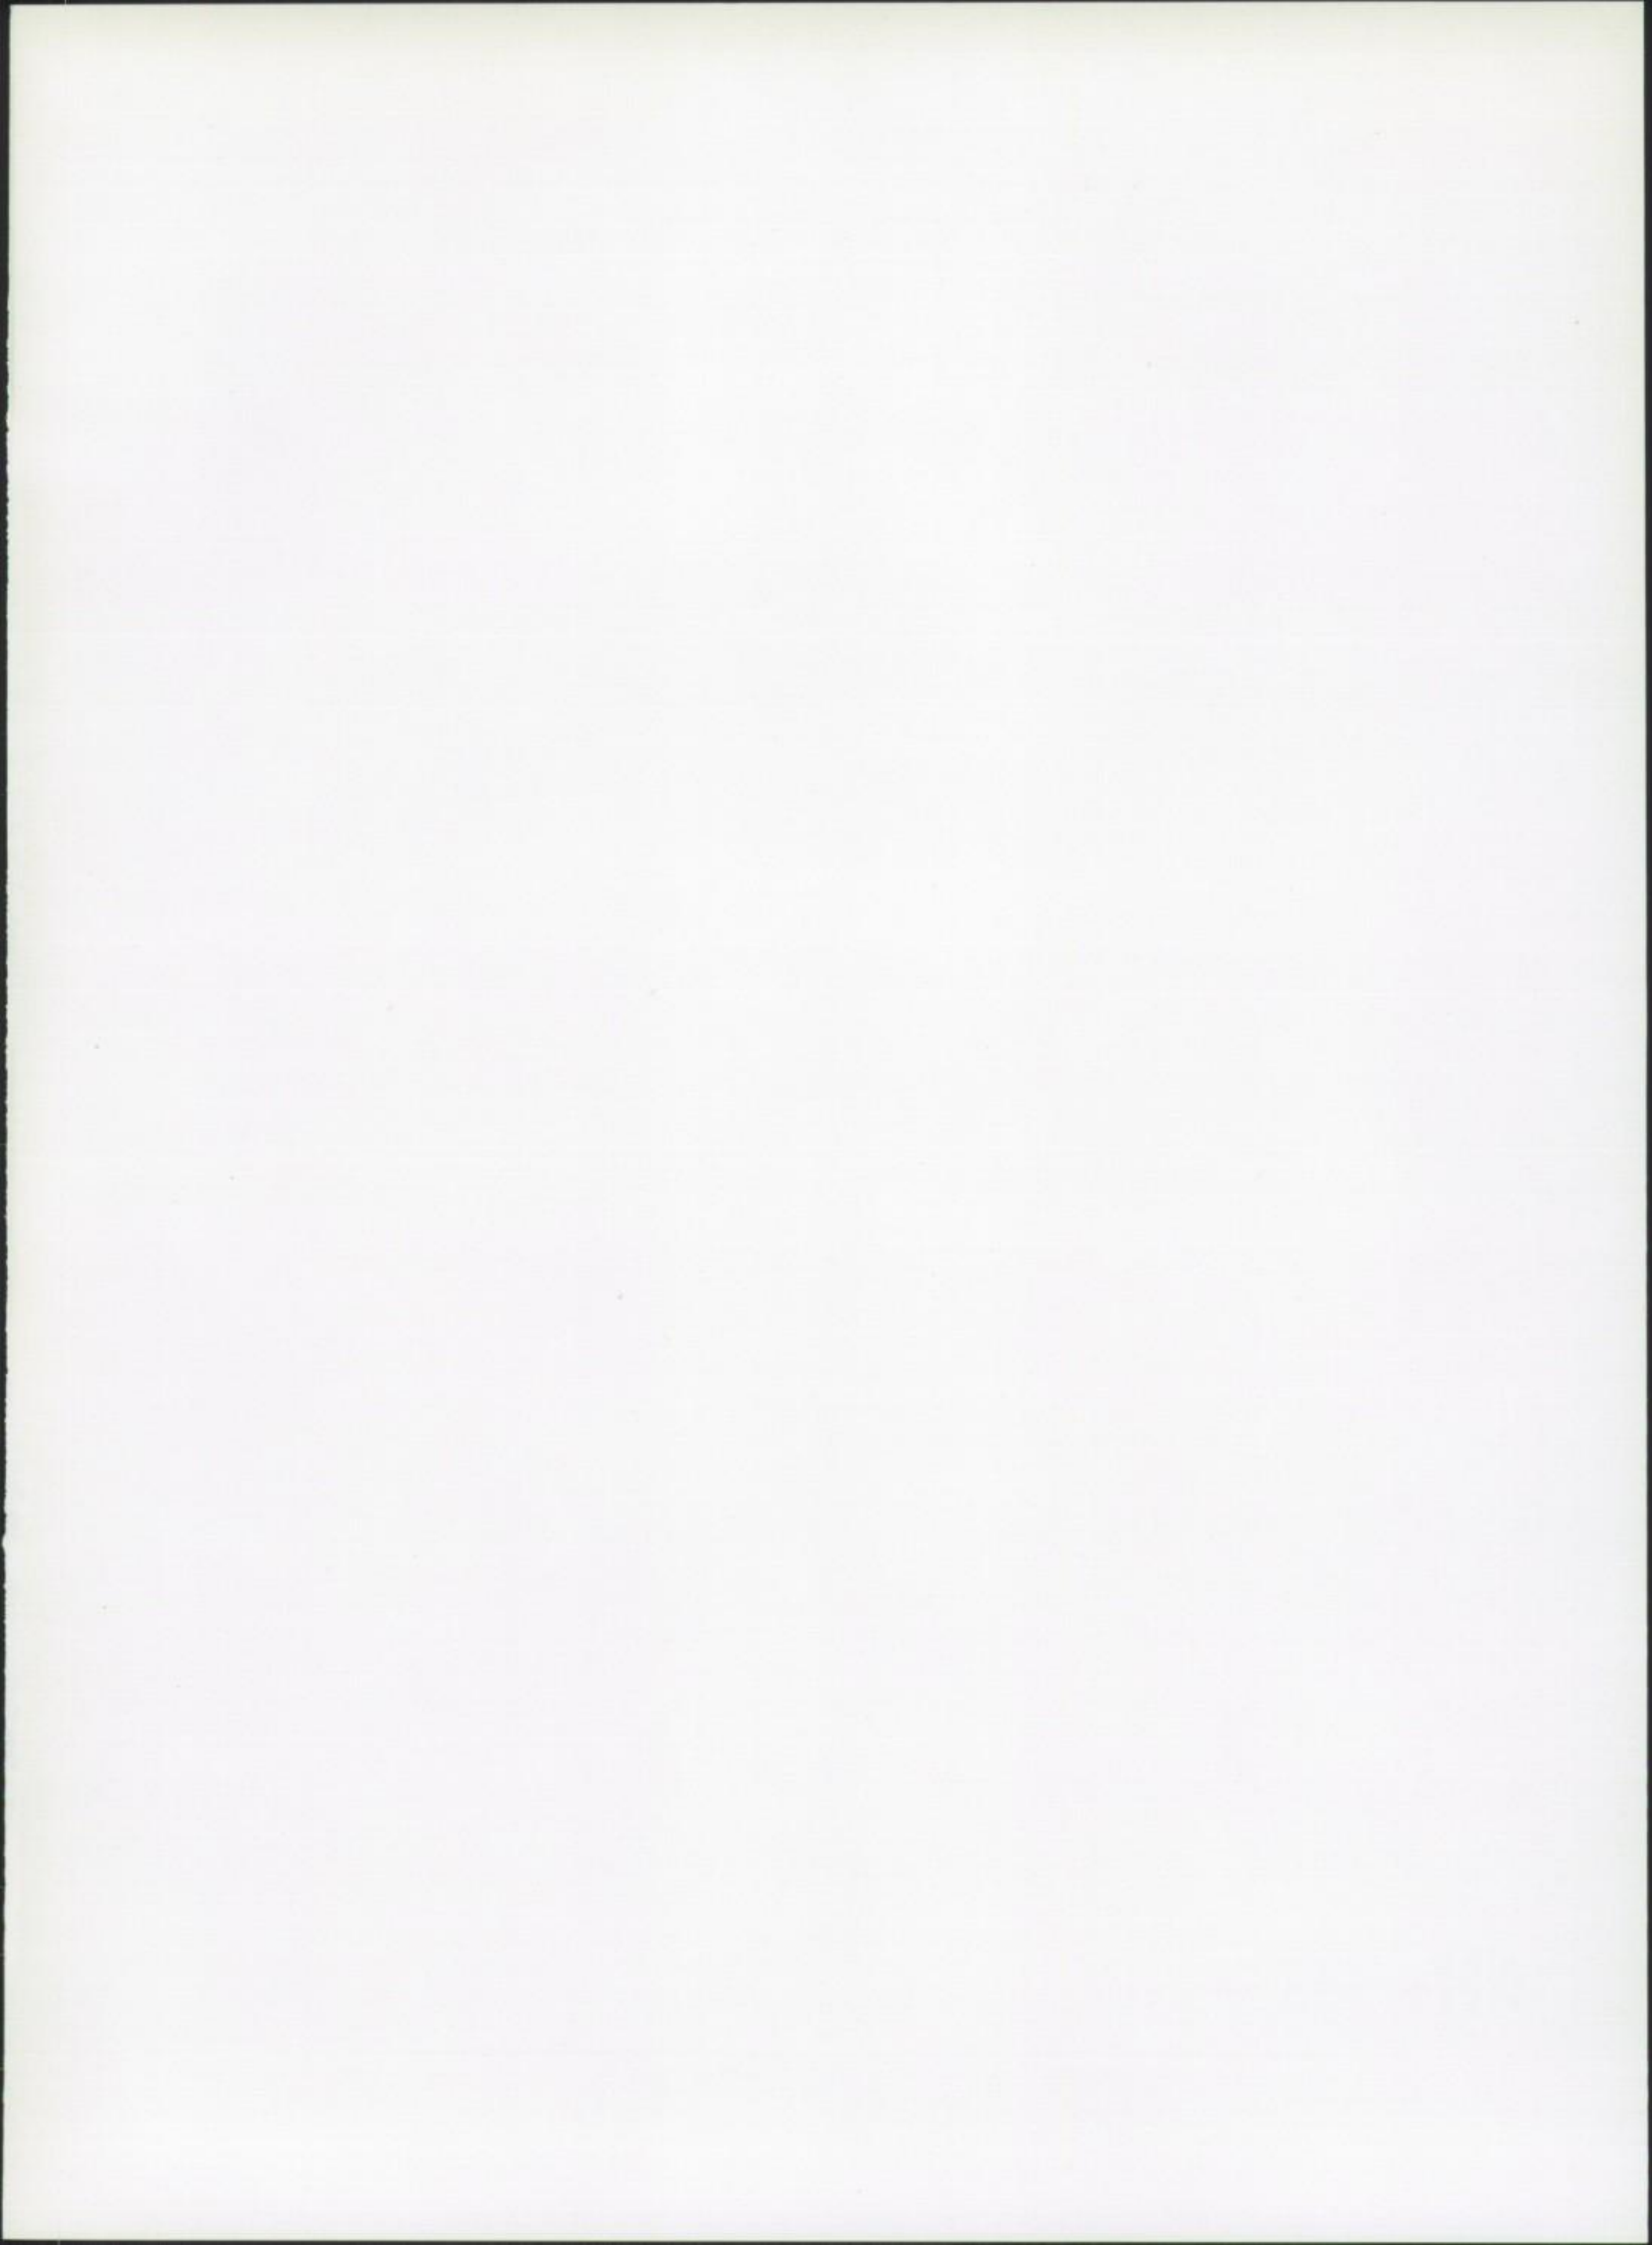

John Burger
